Tibetin Temple Bells by Mickey Hart, I heard this tape about 10 years ago, in a hotel room. I have never seen it since. Was this ever released? If not does anyone have a copy to trade. Thanks,

This must be related to something I was going to post about. I read in one of the usenet Buddhist groups that a Tibetan group/choir was putting out their third album, which was produced by a couple of the fellas from The Dead. Also, the Dead were going to be lending them some of their equipment and such. Has anyone got any more information on this. I believe this is the group's third album. The group is compared to the Gregorian chant Cd that is so popular as of late, except it is Tibetan instead of Catholic.. Perhaps you mean the Gyuto Monks. Mickey has recorded several of their albums. Also, I saw them perform in Berkeley in March, and I believe the sound system (zillion watt amps, super-linear speakers, very loud and clean) had to be partly Hart's doing. Doug.

For the record - There are the Gyuto Monks, with whom Mickey has produced several CDs. The Tibetan Bells album preceded the GM by many years. Two distinct types of music. One is two tone/split octave singing/chanting with a little musical accompaniment. The other is meditation bells. There is also another group or two of monks who have done CDs but Mickey was not involved with them.

since. Was this ever released? If not does anyone have a copy to trade. That would be not the Gyuto Monks, but Yamantaka. I've seen it on CD in Tower Records - it may still be in print. Steve Silberman

I was able to find Yamantaka and the Gyuto Monks album from 1985. Both are fantastic. Does anyone know if the new Gyuto Monks CD has been released yet and what it is called?

Yes, by all means check out Yamantaka by Henry Wolff, Nancy Hennings & Mickey Hart. Recorded in 82 - 83 at Club Front it also marked Mickey's original use of the beam in a recording environment. And if the sound of Tibetan Bells interests you, Henry & Nancy have 5 other disks out dating from the early 70's & their initial album, Tibetan Bells - more recent albums from the late 80's/early 90's. Henry & I used to be graduate students together & so I got to listen to a lot of Tibetan Bells (in Berkeley). It's really wild stuff - sounds which we would think today must have been synthesized, but which are totally natural. Henry & Nancy also did, with Philip Glass, the soundtrack to Koyanagatsii in 81. greg Yamantaka. I've seen it on CD in : Tower Records - it may still be in print. If you can't find it, I do have a copy to trade. But, first I would like it verified that it's out of print. Didn't Ryko just re-release it? It's great stuff, though. The CD has some additions by the other musicians, fantastic stuff. The Tibetan Bells are amazing in their sound, you should hear one live, with your head in the center of one of them!
